

Helping our bees

Einstein once said: "If the bee disappeared off the face of the earth then man would only have four years left to live."

No more bees, no more pollination, no more plants, no more animals, no more man!

Bumblebee numbers are in decline globally due to a loss of habitat and food, changes in agriculture, climate change and the use of pesticides.

Helping the bees is a great way to teach children about caring for and protecting the environment.

There are lots of organisations suggesting different plants to grow in your outdoor spaces to attract bees. Check out the RSPB, Friends of the Earth and Buzz about Bees.
